

Overnight Schedule

The Overnight Guide's say is final and any decisions made by them are backed by their years of experience. Any descriptions given by here are general statements to give you a rough idea and rough schedule as to what will happen. Also, your adult leaders and chaperones are responsible for keeping discipline. There are usually only 2-4 Staff members per overnight. We are here to give you the experience, it is up to you to keep order and to review our rules of conduct to know what our rules are. The rules will be gone over with the whole group at the beginning of the Overnight and a reminder in the morning. However, if any safety issues go unchecked, Museum staff may intervene.

Bunking Down	10:50 PM	Bring your gear onto the COBIA, the Guides will show you to your sleeping area, it is up to them as to where you sleep, bunks are not assigned but rooms are assigned. Lights dimmed about 45 minutes later for sleep. For those that wish to learn more about the sub, an optional Nook and Cranny tour may be attended after snack time and the group is bunked down if you would like to stay up later. It is the participant's responsibility to connect with a guide for this.

Anyone that needs to use the restrooms needs at least one buddy to go to the Museum, including adults, as for youth, at least one buddy needs to be an adult (group leader or Overnight Guide). The plumbing does not work in the boat, and to get to the Museum facilities requires going on deck, and we require buddy system with an adult on deck at all times!

Morning routine

Reveille	7:20 AM	Wake up and clean up. The Guides will ask your group to clean your area, lets face it, when else can you say you swept the floor on a submarine, you know you want to! Most groups don't make a big mess and clean up is usually 3-5 minutes. Clean up consists of spray disinfecting bunks, wiping tables and sweeping the floor while also removing all gear and trash.
Clear the Boat	7:40 AM	All groups need to be clear of the boat, so COBIA can be prepared for the day.
Gear out of Museum	8:00 AM	Your gear must be clear of the Museum, however your group is welcome to stay until close. There will be a morning graduation ceremony and reminder of the rules of the day now that the group will be allowed into the galleries for the day. Should your entire group's gear get to the vehicles AND completed the morning ceremony before 8:00, you may start the Museum early. You may also return after breakfast if you want to go out, just let the front desk know. At this time the Overnight Guides will leave and the Daytime Staff takes over, please keep the store traffic light, preferably less than ten at a time, it is a small store and does not open until 8 AM. The rest of your stay is a self guided tour of the Museum that you may leave when you want until close. At 9 am the Museum opens to the public as well.
